SWIM IN GOLD

– Golden moments of relaxation and tranquility at Arany Spa at Park Hyatt Vienna –

VIENNA, AUSTRIA, 15 September 2014 – Where gold and money were once stored in the past, today an oasis of silence awaits, inviting you to relax and a refuel your strength. At Arany Spa at Park Hyatt Vienna - located in a former bank vault - guests dive into a world of relaxation and tranquility. A world of sensual fragrances, aromas, music and smooth beauty treatments on 1,000 sq m (10,763 sq ft) embedded in a luxurious ambiance of gold, mother of pearl and precious wood. A choice of exceptional body treatments and massages offer relaxation, rejuvenation and purely pleasant sensations.

The architects' creative intuition led them to place Arany Spa - arany being the Hungarian word for gold - in the very place where the bank (which previously inhabited the building) had its vault and the concept of the spa around this vault was developed. The venture was sophisticated. In order to give the spa area more air and space, all of the intermediate ceilings were removed and thus the pool is now hosted in a generous and inviting room.

The original three-tone steel door from Wertheim (the company that initially installed the door in the vault) is still in the same place. An homage to the golden past, the ambience of mother of pearl and natural gold insinuate the philosophy of the spa, delivering a particularly elegant note to the environment.

Dive into relaxation

The masterpiece of the 1,000 sq m (10,763 sq ft) spa area is the mysterious sparkling pool with a 100 sq m (1,076 sq ft) water surface.
